

Del metabolismo del glucógeno a la enfermedad de Lafora

From glycogen metabolism to Lafora disease

Joan J. Guinovart
University of Barcelona

Summary

Glycogen synthesis is normally absent in neurons. However, inclusion bodies resembling abnormal glycogen accumulate in several neurological diseases, particularly in progressive myoclonus epilepsy or Lafora disease. In this conference recent advances in this research topic will be presented and discussed.